Turks & Caicos

Talk about easy escapes: A getaway to Ports of Call Resort couldn't be more convenient. Or relaxing.

This all-junior-suite resort is located in Providenciales, a 90-minute flight from Miami, and a three-minute walk from renowned Grace Bay Beach — with an hourly shuttle. Not only will you lodge in value-priced rooms with fresh new decor, you'll receive many extras included in the price.

Ports of Call guests are treated to continental breakfast every morning and complimentary use of the beach equipment like floating lounge mats, kayaks and stand-up paddleboards. You'll be invited to sun at a dedicated section of beach equipped with loungers, shaders and towels.

Back on the premises, unwind in the courtyard, where a pool, hot tub, ping pong table, pool table and hammocks beckon. Wi-Fi is available in the rooms and common areas at no additional fee. That's not all. Use the hotel parking lot. Play bingo every afternoon. Join the weekly manager's social party. And appreciate the daily housekeeping, playground, and business and fitness centers.

But what if you have a yen for a massage, cold beer or new bathing suit? Here's where Ports of Call really stands out. The resort includes a five-acre shopping, restaurant, spa and nightlife plaza. portsofcallresort.com

Honduras

It's easy to get a non-stop flight from the U.S. to the island of Roatán, a diver's haven off the coast of exotic Honduras. Soon enough, you'll find yourself at Tranquileas Eco-Lodge & Dive Center exploring the world's second largest barrier reef or relaxing in your hammock, cocktail in hand.

On land, you'll find yourselves staying in one of seven comfy cabanas, all with private decks furnished with locally made chairs, tables and hammocks. While you'll be only footsteps from the alluring azure waters of the Caribbean Sea, you'll be in a lush tropical atmosphere surrounded by towering green and brightly hued foliage.

Keep a lookout for all types of birds, insects and more! You'll have civilized pleasures like swimming in the lotus pool, sipping fruity beverages from a lounge, and dining on fresh, locally sourced foods. Relax even further with a daily ocean-view yoga class.

Tranquileas has its own PADI-certified dive center with a friendly, energized staff and a well-stocked equipment locker offering rental gear. The closest dive site is five minutes away within the Roatán Marine Park. The two custom dive boats, for eight divers max, have full shade and cushioned seats, and are maintained to the highest of standards. For longer dive-safari or snorkel trips, the boats are stocked with snacks and cold drinks. tranquileas.com
